OUR LIBERTIES AT STAKE

In one of his books, the late ex-President Wilson said: "I do not want to live under a philanthropy. I do not want to be taken care of by the government. . . . I want only to have right and justice prevail so far as I am concerned. Give me right and justice and I will undertake to take care of myself. I will not live under trustees if I can help it. I do not care how wise, how patriotic, the trustees may be. I have never heard of any group of men in whose hands I am willing to trust the liberties of the American people."

Woodrow Wilson, before he became President, was a distinguished educator and historian, and in that statement he ably reflects the true American spirit—the spirit that won our independence, wrote our Constitution, and gave us democratic government. That spirit is the direct antithesis of paternalism. Its base is the solid rock of individual self-reliance. Its image is the typical American who, like the War President, wants no one to determine his destinies, and wants only, under fair conditions, to carve out his own future.

If we, as a people, lose that spirit, the word Democracy will ring hollowly indeed. The nation abounds with those who would have us accept paternalism, fascism, communism—one form or another of dictatorship. They would have us surrender our liberties to a group of public trustees. And by doing that we would, in the fine words of the old saying, be trading our inheritance for a mess of pottage.

HOW MUCH ARE YOUR TAXES?

If you have an annual income of $2,030 or less, how much of it goes for taxes?

There's a good chance that you will say, "none," inasmuch as your income is below the level reached by the income tax, and you may have little or no property on which taxes must be paid.

But, according to an article by Royal F. Munger in the Chicago Daily News, your taxes come to some $480 a year. One hundred and twenty dollars of this represents taxes included in your rent—the landlord pays them and passes the cost on to you. Ninety-six dollars is included in the price of your family's food—the farmer, the processor, the distributor and retailer pay them, and they become part of the cost of everything in the grocery store. Twenty-four dollars is included in the clothing, furniture and similar items you and your dependents purchase—here again, manufacturers, middlemen and retailers are all heavily taxed and must pass their taxes on to the public.

This totals $240. Finally, says Mr. Munger, other indirect tax burdens that affect the cost of living are estimated to take $240 more out of your family's $2,080 annual income. On a percentage basis, as a result, you pay almost twenty percent of all you earn to government.

Too many people have accepted the fanciful theory that the rich pay all the taxes while the rest of us get the benefits for nothing.

No one escapes taxes—no one ever will. And the average man, with a small or medium-sized income, would gain most from retrenchment in tax levels, regardless of the guise under which they may be labeled.

Just about everybody who is able to read knows something of the drastic changes in NRA set-up and policy that have been taking place for some months. Price-fixing has been dropped in many codes; business is being given more power over its own affairs; the era of iron-handed industrial dictatorship is apparently coming to an end.

Not so well known are changes that have taken place, or that will take place, in the second most important of the Administration's bureaus—the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, generally spoken of as the AAA.

Main activity of the AAA was its commodity and livestock reduction program. It caused the wholesale killing of pigs and the ploughing under of thousands of acres of cotton, in an attempt to cure overproduction. Its opponents were bitter in criticism of this and its defenders equally impassioned on the other side. But whether these measures were sound or ill-advised, the future course of the bureau will take a very different line.

Henry Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, has said that the AAA has done about as much for the farmer as it can, and that further improvement in his position will depend principally upon improved conditions in the urban consuming regions. Dr. Tugwell and Chester Davis, AAA Administrator, have recently said the same thing. The AAA, apparently, is through with pig killing and cotton ploughing under.

The main reason for a change now of AAA policies is due to the fact that agricultural economic conditions have caught up with city conditions, while, in the past, the farmer was generally in a worse position than the urban worker. Officials believe that the AAA has exhausted the possibilities of its past program, and must choose a new tack for the future.

"Foolish" Farming Paying Dividends

Marquette, Mich.—The Upper peninsula, agriculturally speaking, has its eye on a downstate farmer, starting in on a new place in Baraga county, who planted some strange seed beans that he had picked up, no one, not even the planter, knows where.

The Upper peninsula was not a bean country; they couldn't be grown successfully, farmers said. But in the fall of 1930 the farmer harvested a good sized crop. An agricultural agent noticed it, and spread the word. This year at least 200 acres of the beans have been planted.

The bean, apparently some form of Japanese plant which thrives better here than in Japan, is expected to be raised in paying quantities within a few years as a result of the downstate farmer's "foolishness."

Feed 'Em Pie and Keep 'Em At Home Says Attractive Hollywood Star

By Mabel Love

WITH fresh fruits of many kinds now in season, America's favorite dessert—the pie—is coming into its own. And Evelyn Venable, popular screen star, knows how to build a pie and a pie crust that will make a man forget his date for a poker game.

In Hollywood a sudden wave of domesticity has swept many stars and lesser luminares into the kitchen, and Miss Venable says that pie making is one of the first culinary arts they try to master. "Men like pie," she says, "because it sticks to their ribs. The sweet fillings, of course, provide quick energy, especially valuable to those who work at such break-neck speed that every ounce of strength must be conserved."

In making pastry never trust to luck. Measure all ingredients accurately, and endeavor to work with them cold—even ice cold if possible. It is a good plan to put even the sifted flour in an ice box an hour before working with it. Here are the directions for a delectable pie crust:

Never Fail Pie Crust

2 cups sifted bread flour
1 cup sifted pastry flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup butter (1/2 lb.)
1/2 cup lard (1/4 lb.)
6 to 7 teaspoons ice water

Mix both kinds of flour together; add the salt and baking powder and sift all together into your mixing bowl.

Add your shortening and blend with pastry blender, or with two knives, until the mixture looks like coarse meal. Never, never yield to the temptation to knead the dough, for you will have a tough pie crust just as certain as fate if you do. Have water handy and begin to add it with caution—again take warning—do not use one more spoonful than the recipe calls for. When the water is all in, and you may really only require the six spoonfuls of water, then gather the paste up in floured hands and press together.

Have your board slightly covered with a film of flour and begin to roll your crust. First press flat with the floured rolling pin. Roll from center with a light, springy touch, using only as much dough as you will require for the first crust.

Have an ungreased pan ready. When the pastry is evenly rolled and as thin as cardboard, fold over in the middle and slip onto the pie pan.

If top crust is to be used, proceed in the same manner, only you must cut a few gashes in the top crust when it is folded over. This is to let out the steam. If the filling is very juicy, pat some ice water on the brim of the under crust; this will seal the pie and prevent the juice running out.

And here is Miss Venable's idea of how an apple pie should be made:

Select tart apples. In case they are a little too hard, cook in just enough water to steam until they are slightly soft.

4 large apples sliced thin
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon butter

Line one 9-inch pie dish with pastry rolled to 1/4-inch thickness; moisten edges with cold water; fill with apples; sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and dot with the butter. Cover with top crust. Brush with milk or beaten egg. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 15 minutes, then decrease heat to moderate (350 degrees) and bake 30 minutes longer.

Weapons of Wasps, Bees

Wasps and bees are equipped with the most formidable weapons of defense of all insects. Many insects can bite and puncture with their mouth parts, but they can't do it as handily, neatly and effectively as the wasps can puncture with their sting. The sting of the common social wasp or bee is simply a weapon of defense which is not used so long as the insects are not disturbed or threatened with injury.

By-Products From Corn

From the kernels of corn are derived yeast, gluten, dry and wet starch. Dry starch is used in making textiles, paper, confectionery, explosives, adhesives, colors and fireworks. Sugar is derived from the wet starch for use in dietetics, brewing, alcohol, fermentations, etc. Also, corn oil, soap, glycerin, salad and other oils may be derived from the germ in the corn.

Meaning of "Junket"

The word junket as often applied to congress was originally applied to a banquet, or a picnic or excursion with feasting but it has come to mean a trip at public expense by government officials to some distant post, territory or public works for the purpose, they claim, of investigating conduct or for inspection. Congressmen, especially, have been noted in the past for their junkets to distant regions flying the American flag.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Trustworthiness

LOYALTY has always been highly regarded as a virtue, whether it has been applied to family life, social organization, or religion. One of the most familiar exhortations to loyalty is given in the fifth commandment: "Honour thy father and thy mother." John the Baptist entertained and practiced a fine sense of spiritual loyalty when he said of Christ Jesus, "He that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear."

Men and women in various stages of growth and progress have pledged their loyalty to their country and their flag, to righteous causes, and to manifold systems of medicine and religion. All this has been splendid and inspiring. But there is rightly only one true allegiance—that which we owe to God, divine Principle; and eventually everyone will acknowledge this loyalty to Him, and obey without equivocation the First and most important of the Commandments.

In the beloved literature of the Bible there is a clear moral in the fine story told of Ruth. A grand illustration of loyalty is the book of Ruth. Who that has been lonely, has met with reverses, or has experienced trouble in one way or another, such as error always is attempting to make us accept as real, has not longed and prayed for steadfast loyalty and affection such as was expressed in Ruth's words to Naomi, "Whither thou goest, I will go; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God."

From a casual reading of the book of Ruth one might suppose that Ruth's loyalty was that of one near relative to another. The earnest student, however, studying the book profoundly to glean its spiritual meaning and take to heart its moral, will discern Ruth's unmistakable loyalty to God, divine Principle. She appears to have had to a remarkable degree a sense of trustfulness, confidence in God, which in turn made her trustworthy. This trustworthiness unfolded in rare fruitage. She

Races Have Odor

It is quite possible that other races can detect the odor of the white race. Denker, in his "The Races of Man," refers to the fact that certain travelers have asserted they could recognize a population by its odor. The author admits that some ethnic groups have their specific odor, which gets fainter with scrupulous cleanliness, but never disappears.

Some Great Musicians

Victor Herbert was taken to Germany at the age of seven and all of his musical education was obtained there. John Philip Sousa, born in Washington, began his musical education in that city at the age of six, under Espueta and Benkert; he was a violin soloist at eleven and a teacher of harmony at fifteen.

was guided and protected every step of her way. She was protected from sin and from sinful gossip. Her loyalty to God prompted her loyalty first to her husband; then to Naomi, her mother-in-law; and afterwards to the next of kin who, according to the Israelitish custom, married her. Clearly her loyalty to good brought to her solace, comforting companionship, supply, contentment, and happiness.

Mary Baker Eddy presents a clarification of the definition of loyalty when she writes (Retrospection and Inspiration, p. 50), "By loyalty in students I mean this,—allegiance to God, subordination of the human to the divine, steadfast justice, and strict adherence to divine Truth and Love." Demands may be far from having demonstrated perfect obedience to the first two Commandments, but it must be admitted that through the earnest and conscientious endeavor to obey them, so far as he sees the light, the individual will demonstrate ever increasing loyalty to divine Principle. The reasoning is logical that loyalty to God means loyalty to His kingdom and to His ideas—the sons and daughters of God. Loyalty to Principle precludes disloyalty to honesty, goodness, purity, mercy, justice, and the like.

Subordination of the human to the divine at times may seem difficult, for the reason that it is predicated upon the willingness of the individual to surrender dependence upon persons, upon selfish desire, human ambition, man-made plans. Mortals are often reluctant to part with the material things which, as they believe and have been taught for centuries, are essential to happiness. Beautifully Mrs. Eddy puts it, in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 516), "When we subordinate the false testimony of the corporeal senses to the facts of Science, we shall see this true likeness and reflection everywhere."

Justice and adherence to Truth and Love—proof of one's loyalty—follow naturally and necessarily upon loving and obeying the Commandments. And the rewards of such obedience, allegiance, loyalty, are manifold and of inestimable worth.—The Christian Science Monitor.

By LATTIMER SHAW

THE sturdy steel steamer Jacob Ruppert, flagship of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, and the only one of her kind ever driven through the ice fields of the Ross Sea to the Antarctic continent, is being refueled at Dunedin, New Zealand. Her oil burning engines have been thoroughly overhauled and the Tide Water Oil Company is pouring 2,000 tons of fuel oil into her tanks to carry her again to that strange of all spots, the Bay of Whales.

She will leave Dunedin about January 1st to bring back to civilization Admiral Byrd and the 55 intrepid and intelligent men who have spent the dark Antarctic winter in that collection of snow-buried huts officially known as Little America. They must get off the crumbling ice early in February or go through another winter down there.

Before they wave their final salute to Uncle Sam's southernmost post office, however, they will have made an amazing exploration history. The sun has returned to Antarctica. Already the tractors and dog teams are on the trails. The airplanes and snowmobiles and more dog teams will follow as the weather moderates and the last big unknown area in the world will be forced to give up its rigidly guarded secrets under the automotive attacks of science.

Through the air and over the 200-foot thick ice (with 1600 feet of black water beneath it) Admiral Byrd and his men will fly, drive and run, uncovering in record time more hitherto unseen territory than any single expedition has ever inspected before. And this will be made possible only by their gaso-line engines. Thousands of gallons of Tydol gasoline and Veedol motor oil have been cached at strategic spots, some of them hundreds of miles from Little America. Undiscovered mountains, plateaus, glaciers, minerals and simple forms of plant and animal life will be sought. Studies will be made of the aurora, the upper air waves, the land contours, the rock formations for our future interest and study. It should be the most stupendous geographical and scientific investigation ever accomplished by mankind.

And if our geographies, our natural history and physics text books and our ideas of the grim Antarctic continent undergo great resulting changes, as they will, you may be sure that the science of perfecting automotive engines and the fuels and lubricants to make them operate efficiently when failure would mean disaster can be given full credit for its share in this romantic job. Let's watch Byrd and his men and his machines—for the next few months.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 11.

The Golden Text was, "He that cometh from above is above all: he that is of the earth is earthly, and speaketh of the earth" (John 3:31).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit" (Romans 8:1).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Through discernment of the spiritual opposite of materiality, even the way through Christ, Truth, man will reopen with the key of divine Science the gates of Paradise which human beliefs have closed, and will find himself unfallen, upright, pure, and free" (p. 171).

Meaning of "California"

If the name of the Golden State were reduced to its Spanish interpretation, it is very probable that the aggressive advertising of its climate would be largely nullified, for literally "California" is a combination of two Spanish words meaning "hot furnace," writes G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times. The Spaniards, who were the first white men to explore the state, gave to it this name because their interest was not in the cool verdant lands of the seacoast, but in the hot arid sections of the interior where it was believed gold was to be found.

Purple in Snail Shells

In the days of ancient Rome the purple in the shell of certain snails was used in the making of Tyrian purple, a dye reserved for the nobility. The snail used this ink to create a smoke screen about itself in time of danger. Other species of snails are known to bear poison glands which enable the snail to eject a stream of poison several inches. The highly ornamental shells of several species are used as umbrella handles.

War Notes in Pipe

The most ingenious device for concealing notes was used by a spy during the World War. It was a pipe which, although constantly smoked, carried numerous tissue paper memorandums in a secret space between the interior and exterior walls of the bowl. In an emergency, an innocent twist of the overlapping rim would have caused the burning tobacco to consume the papers. —Collier's Weekly.

AMUSEMENTS

Ketti Gallian Seen in
First Film at Gateway,
Kenosha, Sat. & Sun.

High pressure coaching in six months has blended an exotic Franco-Italian personality with intensive English stage training to present a new Hollywood star in her first Hollywood picture.

The girl is Ketti Gallian. Her vehicle is "Marie Galante," opening at the Gateway Theatre, Kenosha, Saturday, an adaptation of the romance which won the Prix de Rome as a novel a couple of years ago. She is playing opposite Spencer Tracy, with a strong supporting cast including Siegfried Rimmann, Helen Morgan, Ned Sparks, Robert Lorraine, Leslie Fenton, Arthur Byron and Stepin Fetchit.

The production is rated as one of the most important on Fox Film's schedule for the year.

Miss Gallian arrived in Hollywood last Christmas eve. A stranger in a strange land, speaking scarcely half a dozen words of English despite her stay in London, she was miserably lonely.

So she concentrated on learning English. Her contract provided that she must learn the language within three months. To insure her concentration, it was further stipulated that she must not speak French during that time.

Gable and Crawford
Together at Genesee

Joan Crawford and Clark Gable are together again, this time in one of the most powerful dramatic vehicles of the year. The picture, directed by Clarence Brown, is entitled "Chained," and will play at the Genesee Theatre for four days, starting Wednesday, Nov. 21. A special Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, it is lavishly mounted and painstakingly produced. The swift-moving story, following the new trend, was especially written for the screen by Edgar Selwyn and adapted by John Lee Mahlin.

The supporting cast is exceptional, with Otto Kruger, Stuart Erwin, Una O'Connor and Marjorie Gatenson prominently cast. But chief honors go to the co-stars who make living characters of their separate roles, and weave a deep-hued tapestry of the poignant romance of Diane and Mike.

The locale of the film, ever-shifting, covers half the Western Hemisphere, moving from New York to a shipboard, to Buenos Aires, to a South American ranch, back to New York and thus North to a Lake Placid resort. It is the kind of rare critics have been crying for: swift, credible, well mounted, well acted, and, above all, entertaining.

Legend
An old Indian legend: When plants and animals were created they were told to stay awake and watch for seven nights. The first night nearly all the animals kept awake. The next night several dropped to sleep. The third night still more went to sleep. At last on the seventh night, only the owl, the panther and a very few of the animals still were awake. Therefore these have the power to see and move about in the dark. Even the trees went to sleep. Only the cedars, the pine, the spruce, the holly and laurel were awake all seven nights. For that reason they are always green.—The Earth.

What Vocation Shall
My Boy Choose?
By C. E. Johnston,
Director, Schools of Business
Training, International Correspondence Schools.

We live in a changing world. Opportunities for success in the future will differ from those in the past. A young man's wise choice of his life work may do much to determine success or failure. How shall he choose?

Traffic Management Offers Opportunities
WITH the 120,000,000 people of the United States increasingly dependent upon transportation for most of the necessities and comforts of life, traffic management should continue to offer a promising field to the young man about to embark upon his business career. In a single normal year we move close to 3,000,000,000 tons of freight. To accomplish this task successfully and economically, expert traffic management is a vital necessity.

The traffic manager is responsible for shipping his firm's products over the quickest and most economical routes. He must be able to trace shipments, handle claims and avoid delays. Beyond this, if he is really an expert in his field, he saves money for his firm and builds new business by introducing better methods of packaging and of loading the packaged product upon the freight train, truck or steamer. A large company in the Middle West has reported that its traffic department was responsible for nearly a quarter of a million dollars of its year's profits.

Traffic management is a highly complex occupation, demanding both study and experience. However, industrial organizations, the railroads, the steamship lines and the motor trucking organizations employ thousands of shipping clerks, rate clerks and billing clerks. The young man anxious to make a start can hardly do better than seek one of these positions. His work will bring him into direct contact with the many problems of traffic management. Practical experience and study should set him on a straight road to the goal.

U. S. CAN IDENTIFY
MOST CRIMINALSFingerprints of 4,500,000 in Government Files.

Washington.—On file at the Department of Justice are 4,500,000 fingerprint cards bearing the tell-tale whorls and loops by which almost any criminal in the land can be identified.

To examine all these cards at the rate of one every ten seconds would require five years, working six days a week, eight hours a day.

But—through an elaborate filing system, when prints are received for identification—it requires only 30 seconds to match them up with the department files.

And now J. Edgar Hoover, director of Uncle Sam's agents who wage a relentless war on gangsters, wants to cut that time to five seconds. Even 22 seconds saved might prove a decisive factor in an emergency, he pointed out.

The five-second record can be made by a "robot" searcher. It already has been applied to about 25,000 fingerprint cards and is being rapidly extended to others.

Roughly, this amazing machine works like this:

Each of the ten fingerprints received from a law enforcement agency is analyzed separately and made into a composite diagram, punched into a card.

When a sample fingerprint is received for identification, the machine is "set" according to the type of the sample and the cards fed in. Miraculously, it flips out only a dozen or so of the cards most likely to correspond with the sample.

To establish an identification, it is necessary only to examine the fingerprint record represented by the selected punch cards.

For the Party Menu
By Jane Rogers

THE French practice of serving a side dish of fruits with the main course offers the ambitious hostess a ready means of adding a touch of distinction to her party meals. True, the French frequently use a dash of wine or other liquors to enhance the zestful tang of the fruits, but with the demise of the Eighteenth Amendment that need no longer be a handicap.

A macedoine of fruits, served in sherbet cups to accompany the roast meat or fowl, requires no elaborate preparation and adds measurably to the eye as well as the appetite appeal of the menu.

Macedoine of Fruits

2 cups sugar
2 cups water
2 tablespoons brandy
2 tablespoons liqueur
2 cups fruit, fresh or canned
Make a syrup of sugar and water, boiling for a few minutes. Add brandy and liqueur. Chill. Cut fruit into small pieces. Mix fruit and syrup and let stand 2 hours in the refrigerator before serving. This makes four sherbets.

Wisconsin Has Higher Milk Production Than Last Year

The daily average milk production on Wisconsin farms as of about Nov. 1 continued above the production of a year ago, announces the Crop Reporting Service of the Wisconsin and United States Departments of Agriculture. Crop correspondents indicate that the number of cows on farms is probably between 3 and 4 per cent less than last year at the same date. The milk production per cow in herd is about 7 per cent above last year but with the reduced cow numbers the total average daily milk production appears to be only about 2 per cent greater than at this time a year ago which is considerably below the figure for the same comparison in October.

Milk cows in Wisconsin are apparently on the decline in anticipation of the short feed supplies. In response to the failure of milk prices to make seasonal gains, and as a result of the unfavorable price of milk as compared to feed prices. The remarkable recovery of fall pastures and the continued pasturing of cattle have contributed to the greater milk production per cow which has offset the reported decline in cow numbers and resulted in the higher average daily milk production level as compared to last year.

Milk prices made less than the usual seasonal increase for October with the average price being $1.11 per hundredweight, a gain of 1 cent or less than 1 per cent from September as compared to the usual increase of about 4.5 per cent. The October prices of milk for cheese, butter, and city market milk at 99 cents, $1.09, and $1.46 per hundredweight, respectively, made gains of 1 cent from September, while the price of milk at condenseries held level at $1.18.

Diamond Lake Girl in National Contest

Shirley Mills, who is a 4-H club girl from Diamond Lake, has had the dress which she made in the 4-H club project entered at the National Club Congress which is to be held in connection with the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago, December 1 to 8. Each state has the privilege of entering only one wash school dress in the contest.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

The most expensive commuting in the country is done by those Wall Street financiers who fly from Oyster Bay to their offices each business day. The cost is $4 each way. By rail, a monthly commutation ticket, which is good for sixty trips, costs $13.04 or a little less than 22 cents a trip. By air, the distance is 35 miles. By air, it is 30 miles. Rail passengers are landed at the Pennsylvania station, however, and that is several miles from Wall Street. By subway, the quickest form of transit, it takes about 15 minutes to travel from the Pennsylvania station to Wall Street. That time, of course, must be added to the 63 minutes it takes the fastest trains to cover the distance. By air, the entire trip takes only 25 minutes and the airplane passengers are landed in the East River, which is right at Wall Street's back door.

The airplane that carries the commuters leaves Oyster Bay each morning at 9. In the afternoon, there are two return trips, one at 4:15 and the other at 5:15. Sundays and holidays, the trips are to Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket so there is no time lost in reaching summer homes. The regulars include Charles E. Hoyt, whose company operates the plane; Frank Russell, E. L. McConnell, officers of the company; C. G. Cleveland, Gerald Livingston, R. L. Clarkson, Rudolph Leoning and S. S. Auchincloss.

Despite the haste of the aerial commuters to get there, these are dull days in Wall Street. Recently thirty-two page boys were laid off by the Stock exchange. But, despite the dullness of business, the boys only got the usual week's vacation this year. They start work at $15 a week and are advanced gradually. When wage cuts came, their wages were also cut. There are some compensations, however. Because of their Stock exchange connection, they receive discounts when making purchases at various places. Also, there are opportunities to form connections that lead to advancement as brokers are quick to grab off bright boys.

Breeding Age of Seals
The bull fur seal does not come to breeding age until it is about six years old, but the female becomes mature during her second year and by the end of her third year generally gives birth to young.

Kind of Beautiful

By MARION P. JOHNSON
O. McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Service.

"PLANNING one of these public weddings is one thing," declared A. H. Hinkler, chairman of the arrangements committee of the Bayview Charity circus, "but putting the fool thing over seems to be an entirely different proposition."

"Too proud!" exploded Josephus Braun. "After all that bunch of prizes we've offered!"

"Surely," suggested Adolphus Weeks, "we shall find a couple somewhere who will agree to be married."

A. H. Hinkler waved his arms wildly. "Somewhere!" he shouted. "But where? Do you realize, man, that the wedding is advertised for tonight?"

"And that we've practically crawled all over that platform on our hands and knees at every performance begging—literally begging—some young couple—any young couple—to please step forward and be married so that we can give them fifty dollars in cash and other junk!" added Josephus Braun quite at the top of his lungs.

"Well," said little Mr. Weeks, softly, placatingly, "it isn't our fault if we receive no response. We have the prizes ready. We have, as you say, pleaded. Surely—"

"Surely," mocked A. H. Hinkler. "They won't expect a wedding when we've placarded the whole city with promises that there will be one! Oh, no!"

"Well," growled Josephus Braun, "we can keep trying, I suppose."

One by one, the committee had taken turns pleading, offering prizes, and beaming hopefully at the vast throng attending the circus. Sometimes there would be a nibble, but never a real bite! Messrs. Hinkler, Braun and Weeks had struggled, perspired, cursed and raged.

Josephus Braun, chosen by the committee to make the final plea because of his deep booming voice, stood that evening and beamed. He began by enumerating the prizes. He dwelt, touchingly, on the interest all these people would take in the young couple to be married here. It was just like a big happy family, he said. Still no response. The crowd sat like a great silent, breathing mass, waiting. Josephus Braun left the ring and consulted his brother committee men.

"Now, listen, ladies and gentlemen," he beamed upon his return. "The committee will double—ab-so-lutely double—the cash prize if a couple will walk up here within the next three minutes and allow themselves to be married. Just three minutes, ladies and gentlemen!" He took out his elaborate watch and marked the time.

Halfway around the auditorium a young couple rose, hesitatingly, whispering. The girl sank into her seat again, but not before Josephus Braun had spotted her.

"Come right along!" he invited cordially, waving the watch. "Right this way! There isn't much time!"

The young man assisted the hesitant girl to her feet, and led her, trembling, to the ring. Triumphant, Josephus Braun bore his charges away. Flurry. Excitement.

Who were they? wondered the crowd. No one seemed to know. Well, it didn't really matter. They were young—and in love. Anyone could see that.

A breathless hush. The circus band began to play Lohengrin, a little blaringly. Attendants, drafted from the circus performers, and transformed by the magic of quick change appeared, taking their places with quiet dignity.

And then the bride with a great bouquet of roses, still wearing her little dark suit, but very lovely! Her cheeks were deeply pink, and she was nervous and a little afraid, but there was a soft, tremulous beauty about her that the crowd sensed and approved. A little dark-eyed bride, trembling! They took her to their hearts and loved her, and smiled at her, and even over her, a little. It didn't matter about the groom. Just a good-looking young man, a little shabby.

The wedding went on. The gifts were presented. Josephus Braun beamed. The crowd beamed. The bridegroom beamed. And the little bride blushed and smiled.

The wedding was over. The crowd sighed a little regretfully, and the circus went on—while in the committee room the bridegroom bargained with the committee, taking some of the prizes and trading others for cash. At last, with their little rattletap car stacked high with booty, the young couple drove away, alone, into the night.

And then a quiet roadway, ribboning into the deeper shadows of the velvety night.

"Tom," said the little bride, snuggling against his broad dark shoulder, "do you think it was all right?"

"Sure," said Tom, slipping his arm around her.

"I was awful scared," she said, trembling a little in remembrance. "I thought maybe they'd arrest us—or something—if they knew!"

"They didn't make any rules about it," said Tom, reasonably. "They just said they wanted a couple to get married!"

"It's wonderful," sighed the girl. "With all that money and all these prizes we can take baby from Aunt Mary and get us a room and live together 'til you get a job."

"Sure," said Tom. "The little car rattled happily on."

"And Tom?"

"Yes?"

"It was kind of beautiful, wasn't it—getting married all over again after three years?"

TO GET LOANS FOR WELLS AND FARMS

Water Needs Recognized by Administration.

Washington.—In the flood of inquiries received by the Federal Housing administration from farmers and others who live in rural communities, these facts stand out clearly: Water is one of the most pressing farm problems today in large areas of the United States.

How to get money to dig new wells or deepen old ones leads all the questions asked of the FHA by farmers.

Another question being asked by thousands of inquirers is how to get money to build dams for ponds and small lakes.

The answer to both questions is for the farmer, or anyone else living in a rural community, to apply for the necessary loan at the local bank or other lending institution. Modernization loans for the purpose of deepening old wells or digging new ones are authorized by the FHA, as well as ponds needed to conserve the water supply.

Construction Permitted.

Other new construction permissible for modernization loans and of special value in rural districts includes fences, gates, garages, poultry houses, smoke houses and any similar construction—always provided the proposed improvements meet with the approval of the bank or other lending institution to which the application for the loan is made. Also, the amount applied for must not exceed $2,000, although the project may cost as much more as the farmer is able to pay for without borrowing.

Included also in the modernization program are ordinary improvements to the farm dwelling, barn or other large farm buildings, such as lighting and fire protection, insulation, reconstruction of faulty chimneys, strengthening of foundations, additions of new rooms and porches, installation of plumbing, heating systems, wiring and similar operations.

Accessories Needed.

For many farmers who need wells, other things also are wanted. They state in their inquiries to the FHA that they need windmills, pumps, tanks, cisterns, piping, troughs and other things in order to get the greatest use from the wells they hope to dig with their modernization loans.

All these improvements are eligible under the regulations governing modernization loans, according to FHA officials. When the regulations were first published, it was the general impression that these loans were barred for new construction of any kind, as the national housing act states that the loans must be restricted to "repairs, alterations and improvements upon real property."

Official interpretation of this part of the act, however, includes these classes of new construction under the head of "improvements," which they undoubtedly are. Wells and small ponds were specifically mentioned because of the volume of inquiries on this point and because of the great need for new sources of water supply by farmers in large areas of the Middle West and Southwest.

Asserts Cannibals Are Easy to Get Along With

Rochester, N. Y.—Cannibals are easy to get along with if one knows how to handle them, according to Capt. Edward A. Salsbury.

For 40 years he has explored the remote corners of the world and often has been where man-eating tribes are a reality.

"The average cannibal has the mind of a four-year-old child," the captain explained.

The captain also exploded the popular belief about the cannibals' pot with the assertion that victims are not boiled in a large pot but are "cooked over hot rocks."

Cannibals do not like white men as their "main dish," he declared, but prefer members of an enemy tribe as a choice diet.

Ohio Physician Still in Active Practice at 99

Bethel, Ohio.—Dr. W. E. Thompson, believed the oldest practicing physician in the United States, passed his ninety-ninth birthday quietly, but kept himself in readiness to answer any call.

Despite his age, Doctor Thompson remains faithful to the physician's creed not to spare himself. Through the four seasons, in rain or snow, the aged doctor rises from his bed to speed over country roads to a patient's home.

Doctor Thompson rides in an automobile now, chauffeur driven. When he started practice 77 years ago here he traveled by horseback.

Boston.—Rufus P. Turner listens in on the radio with a receiving set that's only 1-64 of an inch square. He and Francis Whittemore, a friend, made a bet as to who could produce the tiniest set. Whittemore's measured 1-32 of an inch square. Both did their work under magnifying glasses.

The Wandering Jew

The Wandering Jew was a legendary character who was supposed to have been doomed to wander until the second coming of Christ because he taunted Jesus as he bore the cross. This legend first appeared in a pamphlet supposed to have been printed in Leyden about 1602 and it relates how one Paulus von Elzers had met a Jew, Ahazuerus, who had declared himself "eternal" and the original Jew punished by Christ. The pamphlet gained wide circulation and led to reports of the Wandering Jew being seen in many places.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Ticker Tape System

The first ticker was a printing telegraph which was patented by Royal Earl House, April 18, 1846. The ticker was first exhibited at the American Institute fair, New York city in 1844. It was used extensively for about ten years when it was superseded by new models. The first ticker to operate at a fast speed was installed November, 1929, in the Bankers Club of America, on the 38th floor of the Equitable building, 120 Broadway, New York. It printed 600 characters a minute. It operates on only one transmitting wire instead of two as did the old tickers.

The Six Toughest

The six toughest plants in the United States are the cottonwood, rabbit bush, aromatic sumach, a shrubby penny-royal, a yucca and the peculiar gymnosperm, Ephedra. They are so hardy that they are able to maintain themselves in the White Sands of New Mexico, a deposit that is 98 per cent pure gypsum, located in an area virtually without rainfall.

WILMOT

Union Free High School

Chairman William Lieske has announced the complete plans for the Carnival to be held at the Union Free High School Friday night, November 16. The carnival is sponsored by the Boys' and Girls' Athletic association, assisted by the other school pupils. A gala affair has been arranged with fortune telling booths; fish ponds; House of Terror; there will be agricultural and science exhibits and a play by the Girls' Dramatic Club. Interesting novelties will be offered for sale.

Funds raised on this occasion will be used for extra curricular activities. The evening may close with dancing in one of the rooms.

Wilmot's foot ball team closed the season with a non-conference game with Union Grove at Union Grove Wednesday afternoon and both elevens failed to score.

The League results of the South Eastern Wisconsin Football Conference for the season are: Mukwonago, games won, 4, lost 0; Watertown, 3 and 1; Wilmot, 2 and 2; East Troy 1 and 3; Rochester, 0 and 4.

The Class of 1935 and pupils of the high school had pictures taken for the publication "Echo," on Thursday.

Basket ball practice has started this week and the opening conference game is scheduled for Friday, Dec. 7, with Rochester on the local floor.

Marlin M. Schnurr, principal, and Coach William Lieske attended the Lower Fox football conference at Rochester when foot ball games for next year were arranged. The schools of Union Grove and Williams Bay were admitted to the conference and the schedule will consist of six games next year. The complete list of schools includes: Rochester, Mukwonago, Watertown, East Troy, Union Grove, Williams Bay and Wilmot.

American Education week and Armistice Day were jointly observed at a program held in the Union Free High School Friday night, with two American Legion posts, Schultzhahn of Bristol and Fred Semrau of Wilmot, as well as the high school represented.

The program opened with selection by the high school band and the singing of America by the audience.

Talks by Marlin M. Schnurr, principal of the school, Joseph Gott, a member of the Schultzhahn post and Val W. Dittman, Kenosha attorney, who represented the Fred Semrau Post.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Shottliff and children and Elbert Kennedy were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Lester at Spring Prairie. Mrs. Lester has been seriously ill for several months.

The Mothers' Club of the Wilmot Grade School is to meet in the upper room Wednesday afternoon.

Fair-mindedness
The expression, "an open mind" refers to the state of mind when one can view a thing dispassionately and, even if he has convictions on one side of the question, can still feel that the other side may be right and he may be wrong. It might be referred to as a just or fair state of mind.

Close Shave

By JOSEPH M. GRAHAM
McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Service.

SHE was young and very pretty. Almost hidden by an armful of packages she lowered them long enough to smile at the old druggist who smiled back, reminded suddenly of some one also young and fair who used to smile at him that way many years ago.

"May I have two nickels?" she asked laying a ten-cent piece on the counter, "I'd like to telephone."

"Certainly," said Doc Putnam cheerily, adding: "We have two telephone booths, one in the rear and one at the front. Take your choice."

"I'll take the one in the rear," she smiled, gathering her bundles together. "It doesn't matter which one you use," the druggist's eyes twinkled, "I can hear everything you say."

Laughing gaily, she entered the booth. As she called the number, Doc listened idly. Some lucky young husband was about to be called, he guessed, perhaps informed that dinner would be late because his darling had been delayed while shopping. Doc enjoyed cataloging the people who passed in and out of his drug store day after day and generally his guesses were right.

"Is this Bishop 7-3232?" the girl was speaking. "This is Mary. Yes. John was supposed to phone me at exactly five o'clock and I'll never be there on time. Yes, I'll give you the number in the phone booth and he can call me here. Ready?"

Not far wrong, thought the old druggist proudly and turned to greet two new customers: A blond, rather overdressed, and an attentive young man.

He entered the phone booth in the front of the store and the blond took a seat by the soda fountain. As the old druggist rearranged a window display which had fallen down, he heard the young man in the booth give the operator a number.

Suddenly he stiffened to attention. It was the same number called by the girl in the rear phone booth.

"This is John, is Mary there?" The young man's voice was easily distinguishable to old Doc Putnam.

"Yes, yes," the voice was suddenly impatient. "Let me have the number. O. K. Thanks. Good, I'll call her at once." The receiver clicked as he hung up.

"Will you let me have some nickels, please?" the young man had swung open the door of the booth and was holding a dime in the general direction of the druggist and smiling at the blond.

With shaking hands the old man made change and the young man turned to the phone and called the number in the back booth where his wife waited. In a few minutes things would be popping in the store and Doc wondered what attitude the erring husband would take. And what of the blond? He turned and regarded her as she sat impatiently tapping her foot and puffing a cigarette.

But the telephone conversation broke in on his thoughts.

"Hello, Mary, this John? Yes, yes. I know. I'm very sorry, but I won't get home until late—delayed downtown, you know."

There was a pause. "I know I promised but—"

Suddenly Doc Putnam was angry. Suddenly he hated the frivolous blond girl, tapping her foot so impatiently, so sure of herself and the man she waited for. They were cheaters, that's what they were!

What would happen when the phone conversation ended and those two stepped out and confronted each other? All the dreams of the sweet-faced girl in the back of the store would come crashing down about her. It would be a cruel thing to watch. A lump rose in the old man's throat. Suddenly he determined that it would not happen.

The rear phone booth opened, and the girl came out. Picking up her bundles, she started toward the door. Then she caught sight of the young man standing in the door of the front phone booth.

"Why, John—" her laughter bubbled out—"What a coincidence. You were in that phone booth all the time?"

"Mary!" He was both surprised and frightened.

The blond, who had been staring at the girl indignantly, stepped forward. But a firm hand grasped her arm.

"Mrs. Smith," said old Doc Putnam, loudly, "this is probably the best cure for your ailment."

He had seized a bottle from a shelf and was holding it before her.

"That's his wife," he whispered, in a hoarse undertone.

Bewildered, the blond was staring at the skull and cross-bones on a bottle of iodine.

In the background, Doc was dimly conscious of the strained voice and laughter of the young man.

As the husband walked out with his wife, he half turned. Without glancing at the blond, his eyes riveted on the face of the old druggist, and in their depths was mingled a story of contrition and gratitude.

Law Briefs Old

The system of submitting all cases to a court in the form of a written brief existed in Egypt about 5,000 years ago. One such brief in the Berlin museum covers litigation between an heir and an executor; it is believed to be of that age and the oldest document of its kind in existence.

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN G. IRELAND
Director, Physical and Health Education
New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

Is Your Child Comfortable?

Sitting at school is important because of its relation to comfort, and comfort in turn is related to one's working efficiency and application.

Somehow, this simple relationship is overlooked too often. But let the adult at home plan to enjoy an hour of reading, and he takes great pains to insure comfort. He doesn't partake of his novel or newspaper with a ridge here and a projection there pressing against bones, blood vessels, nerves and muscles. The little discomforts of the straight back wooden chair soon make themselves felt. They make concentration difficult, and they give us the "fidgets."

So let's be a little thoughtful of the child at school, and let's remember that discomfort and good work, rather, one's best work, don't go together. The feet shouldn't dangle off the floor, since that means that the front edge of the chair is pressing hard against the back of the thigh. Nor should the seat be so low that the knees are hunched up in front. Instead, the feet should rest flat on the floor and the thighs should rest evenly on the seat. The desk should be neither too close nor too far to the pupil. In both instances, unnatural, uncomfortable postures result.

The near edge of the desk should overlap the front edge of the seat about an inch or two. The height of the desk should permit the forearms to rest on the desk without either a hunching or a slouching of the shoulders. The child should appear to be comfortable, assuming a slight forward incline.

Next week Dr. Ireland will write about "Concentrated Sunshine."

Tree on Grave Measures

Roger Williams' Height

Providence.—Rhode Island will celebrate the tercentenary of its founding in 1839, and already a committee is active, attempting to decide what type of man to get to impersonate Roger Williams, founder of the state.

Williams was known to have been portly, but as for his height, the only thing left to guide the committee is that the famous apple tree remains. An apple tree was planted over Williams' grave and the roots, seeking phosphate, followed the course of his spine and legs. The root, all that remains of Williams, is owned by the Rhode Island Historical society. It would indicate that Williams was about 5 feet 10 inches tall.

Hard Hit Billiard Ball

Causes Series of Events

Vienna.—Struck too hard by a player, a billiard ball started much trouble in a town near here. It flew through an open window, crashed through a pane of glass of a neighboring house and smashed a valuable vase. A cat, frightened by the noise, jumped on the table and upset a tea urn. Blazing oil from the urn started a fire in the room. The two billiard players rushed in to stop the blaze, and the aged woman who owned the house saw the flames and strange men, had a stroke and dropped dead.

Roof Color Is Important Factor In Exterior Appearance of Home

Light Walls Look Best with Dark Roof; Numerous Combinations

Who can resist the charm of a yellow shingle cottage with a roof of weathered gray? Or the dignity of a gleaming white colonial house set off by a deep green roof?

The color and tone of the roof can make a house appear striking or commonplace, no matter what the color of the walls may be. It is a simple matter to make any well-proportioned house the most attractive one in a community by choosing a roof tone that harmonizes well with adjacent hues and effects, whether they appear in the side walls, landscape or surrounding buildings.

Light walls, generally speaking, are at their best with a dark roof. Dark walls are always more attractive enlivened by a bright, warm roof. That is why the gleaming white walls of a colonial house are beautiful when emphasized by a dark green roof, gray walls when brightened by a red roof, or yellow walls when subdued by a gray or blue-black roof. Brick walls require a light, warm colored roof in any shade that harmonizes with the color of the brick. Wood shingle siding calls for a roof of weathered natural finish.

Except where architectural tradition limits the selection of color and finish or where the tones of neighboring buildings may clash, the unique effects which can be had by following the rule "light walls, dark roof—dark walls, bright roof," are almost numberless.

Handy Pies

A pumpkin pie is a mighty handy thing to have around during the holidays, even if you aren't a movie comedian. People do other things with pumpkin pies besides plastering them all over other people's faces, you know. So here's a good way to make a simple

Country Pumpkin Pie
Smooth one-half cup cottage cheese or pass it through a sieve, then mix with one and a third cups canned pumpkin. Mix two-thirds cup sugar with two-thirds teaspoon cinnamon and add with two beaten eggs and one and a third cups milk. Heat in a double boiler and pour into a pie oven hot, 450 degrees, for first ten minutes, then reducing it to 325 degrees for remaining time, about thirty minutes or until a knife inserted comes out clean. This makes one pie.

If you're feeling dressy, you can doll up a pumpkin pie so that its country cousin wouldn't recognize it on the table. If you feel that way about it, try this:

Pumpkin Pie with Marshmallows:
Add two-thirds cup sugar, one-fourth cup dark molasses, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon cinnamon and one teaspoon ginger to two cups canned pumpkin (or half the contents of a No. 3 can). Add 2 beaten eggs, one cup milk and one-half cup cream and heat in double boiler. Pour into tin lined with pastry and bake at 450 degrees for ten minutes, then at 325 degrees for thirty minutes or until set. Cut twelve marshmallows in halves and lay over top. Return to oven until marshmallows are browned. Makes one large pie.

Brothers Meet at Fair First Time in 42 Years

Chicago.—For the first time since the elder of the two left his Tipperary (Ireland) home 42 years ago to seek his fortune in America, two brothers met through a World's Fair visit in Chicago.

The brothers are John J. Holloway of Lynn, Mass., and Patrick Holloway, fifty-seven, late soldier of fortune, who lives with a sister at 329 South Green Bay road, Highland Park.

Although John Holloway has visited Chicago several times before, always as a tourist, with the Sixth Cavalry in China, with the Rainbow Division in Mexico, with the Boston bus, an elderly gentleman said to him: "Are you John Holloway?" "Sure! And you're Pat!"

Crows Act as Squirrel Dogs for This Hunter

Walnut Ridge, Ark.—Crows are squirrel dogs for C. F. Howerton, farmer near here.

Howerton's prized hunting dog, Old Drive, was killed by a rattlesnake and the farmer didn't look for squirrels until the diminished family meat supply forced him into the woods.

Without Old Drive he was helpless. Cawing crows attracted his attention and he decided to shoot them. As he approached the crows flew and three squirrels scurried through a big tree. He bagged all three squirrels.

He heard more crows and found them quarrelling with two squirrels over nuts being stored for winter.

Now whenever Howerton hunts, crows lead him to his quarry.

Wise Choice Of Beef Cuts Aids Family Budget

Savory Dishes May Be Prepared from Cheaper Portions

Stretching the food budget so that it will cover the family's meat needs is not so difficult, in spite of rising prices, if Illinois homemakers buy the cuts of beef that supply the greatest food value for the least cost, says Slesher Bull, meats specialist at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Porterhouse and sirloin steaks and rib roasts, owing to their limited portions, are always more expensive. There are, however, many cuts of beef at more moderate prices. In most cases these are just as nutritious as the more aristocratic steaks and roasts. Furthermore, when properly cooked, they are quite palatable.

Many families prefer a rump to a rib roast, not only because it sells for about three-fourths as much as a rib cut, but because there is less waste, explains Bull. Rump from old, thin cattle, however, should be pot-roasted rather than roasted. For the same reasons, chuck ribs and chuck arms are often bought by shrewd homemakers instead of the better-known rib cuts. Being less tender, chuck pieces should also be pot-roasted.

Round steak, which is usually priced at two-thirds the cost of porterhouse and about four-fifths as much as sirloin, makes another economical buy. If the steak is cut thin, it should be fried, but if a thick cut has been selected, it should be prepared as a swiss steak, thereby overcoming its less tender characteristic.

Savings as great as 50 per cent can sometimes be made in buying stewing meats. Neck, plate and brisket are quite satisfactory for this purpose and are economical as well as palatable.

Hamburger or ground beef is always a practical meat selection. If especially high quality hamburger is desired, the housewife can buy round steak and have it ground, but more meat of equal quality can be had for the same money by having the butcher grind a piece of shoulder arm or chuck. The offal cuts such as liver, heart and tongue are likewise less expensive than other more popular pieces and at the same time lend to the diet.

An economical feature of meat, points out Bull, is the fact that it does not require the addition of butter, cream or mushrooms to make it palatable. Meat is one of the most savory foods and supplies gravies and soups which add materially to the palatability of other less tasty foods.

What Vocation Shall My Boy Choose?

By A. B. Clemens,
Director, Mechanical Schools,
International Correspondence Schools.

We live in a changing world. Opportunities for success in the future will differ from those in the past. A young man's wise choice of his life work may do much to determine success or failure. How shall he choose?

Ground Aviation

FOR every aviation pilot in the air there are four to six men on the ground who are necessary to keep the pilot aloft. These are the men who build the engines and planes, who check them and keep them in condition.

Through good years and bad, air mileage has steadily increased. What the limits of this progress will be no one can now foresee, but as progress continues there is certain to be a constant increase in the need for skilled men on the flying fields and in the factories where the planes and engines are constructed. Few lines of work seem to offer better opportunities to the young man starting on his career.

To be an aviation technician requires both experience and technical knowledge. License requirements and other government regulations have made it impossible for any but highly skilled men to succeed. These requirements, however, have broadened the opportunities for the young man willing to work, to study and to learn.

The most direct start toward success in this field would be getting a job as a helper or apprentice in a plant where planes or engines are built, or in a shop at a flying field. If this is impracticable, the young man can get a start toward the ultimate goal by obtaining a similar job in a shop where almost any type of high-speed internal combustion engine is built, assembled, or repaired.

The job itself, whether in aviation or a field allied to it, will supply valuable experience, while the necessary technical knowledge can be obtained through reading and study during spare time.

Housing Hints

Tips on How and What to Improve

Replace Sash Cords.
Replace your sash weight cords. It may be that that is the reason the old window is so hard to open.

Thin Your Paint.
When paint is sprayed on an object, it should be of thinner consistency than paint applied with a brush.

Build Lily Pond.
Improve the appearance of your yard with a concrete lily pond or gold fish pond. These need not be large to be effective.

Better Wear Resistance.
Wear-resisting colored waxes and liquid polishes for plain and colored concrete, tile and terrazzo floors have been perfected.

Paint the Outlets.
Convenience outlets placed 25 inches above the floor and painted to match the wall are more convenient and attractive than unpainted outlets located near the floor.

Good-bye, Dishrags.
The modern kitchen sink is built for efficiency. No longer is it necessary to use a dishpan or a dishrag. The eight-inch deep compartment is satisfactory for washing dishes. A combination stopper and strainer keeps the water in the basin.

Center Lighting Back.
With new developments in attractive, shaded ceiling fixtures replacing old-fashioned equipment that sheds a cold, barren light, center ceiling lighting is becoming popular again. General illumination from an overhead fixture is the logical solution to the problem of the fairly high intensity necessary on many occasions.

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

Concentrated Sunshine

The shorter day of the autumn and winter means "cod liver oil time" to an increasingly large army of parents. Or it may be the hal-but or the salmon that is the benefactor. The needs, values, and results are just the same. Your family physician should make the choice.

But of one thing we are sure, and it is that a great many children are in absolute need of one of the liver oils and it is very likely that practically all children would be benefited. We witness one of the marvels of science and take it so calmly. We discover that sunshine is essential to the normal growth of children and to the health of adults. We find out why. Other investigations discover in the fish liver oils those chemical elements called "vitamins," and it turns out that they are identical with the elements manufactured in our bodies under the influence of the sun's rays. Thus, when the short day comes and children are deprived of sunshine because of attendance at school, we have at hand nature's own product and substitute.

I shall never cease to regard these discoveries as being among the greatest triumphs of man. We should rejoice in this knowledge and we should use it, that coming generations will be ever better fitted to carry on the world's work. To say that it is one of our obligations as parents and teachers is not putting it too strongly. Sunshine is essential and it is better than the substitute. Lacking it in quantity, we should rely upon the next best, one of fish liver oils. But, as always, get your physician's advice.

Don't prescribe for your child without a physician's advice. Dr. Ireland will discuss the dangers of this next week.

Partition Kitchen For Breakfast Nook

There is a potential breakfast nook in every big, old-fashioned kitchen. Whether it is hidden away in an unneeded pantry or an unused corner, it can be discovered and developed easily with the help of a property improvement loan from a bank cooperating with the Federal Housing Administration.

All that is necessary is some partition material and a built-in table with two built-in benches to match. The walls may be finished in any desired manner. The table and benches may be lacquered or painted in any color that harmonizes with the color scheme of the kitchen.

While the contour of the kitchen is being changed it an excellent time to include a new sink with drain boards and a new floor covering. Other changes incidental to each individual case, such as additional electric outlets, or more shelves and cabinets, will suggest themselves.

Greet Juniors
at Class Play

Two packed houses greeted the casts of the junior play, "Regatta," Thursday and Friday nights and the continuous applause of the audience indicated their appreciation of the young people's efforts to play their role effectively.

Frank Zelen and Marvin Fenema portrayed the part of Stephen Worthington with unusual poise. The part of John, the butler, was done equally well by Richard Burnette and Frank Verkest. Paul Richey and Homer White at Ted Worthington, and Robert Brogan and Marren Miller as the adventurous Jack Crothers were well cast. Dorothy Schold and Doris Edwards in the part of Virginia Worthington delighted the audience with their pep and enthusiasm. Bruce Dalgard and Harry Halwas, who played the part of Dick Chilton, and Ray Hills, who played Bobby Cunningham, gave the crowd many a laugh with their clever lines. Patricia Paine as portrayed by Lillian Musch and Betty Meler kept the audience in an uproar. Cheryl Smith and Ruth Ferris were very pleasing in the role of Beth Newells. Mr. Worthington's attractive secretary, Evelyn Bergstrom and Elaine Hennings, who took the part of Mrs. Winsborough, deserve unusual praise for their excellent characterization. Genevieve Daube and Ruth Nelson were exceedingly attractive in the role of Gwendolyn Winsborough. Evelyn Overton and Florence Dunford were well received as Mary, the opera star.

Much praise is due the various committees, who worked to make the play a success and to Mrs. Phillips, who directed both casts in the excellent production.

Coach Announces
Basketball Schedule

Sixteen hard battle await the Seagulls on the hardwood floor this winter. On Thursday, November 20, the boys will pry the lid off the 1934-35 season with a tilt with Richmond. There will be just a first team game. On Friday of that week the boys go to Warren to renew the old feud made bitter by three straight Warren victories of last year. Coach Suter has been driving the boys hard to get them in shape and the way they are working looks good for Antioch's chances in the North-west Conference this year.

Large Audience Hears
Excellent PTA Program

An unusually large audience in attendance at the November meeting of the Antioch Parent-Teachers' association at the Grade School Monday night heard an interesting address on children's reading by Mrs. Flora Coen, librarian of the Lake Bluff city library. Mrs. Coen described her work at the Century of Progress this summer where she had charge of the reading and story telling on the Enchanted Island. She is considered an authority on child psychology.

Mrs. Robert O'Brien, a past president of the Leander Stone school of Chicago, spoke briefly of the scope and purposes of the national organization of parents and teachers, and Mrs. MacDougall gave an interesting account of the meeting of the parent-teachers' section of the Lake Shore Division of the Illinois State Teachers' association held at Evanston October 23. Others attending the meeting were Mrs. F. W. Swanson, Mrs. M. M. Miller and Mrs. Ernestine Robbins.

Musical numbers were rendered by Mrs. Emily Kallal of Berwyn, in solos, and also duets with her sister, Mrs. Selbesta, also of Berwyn. Both women are sisters of Mrs. Joseph Patrovsky of Antioch.

The date of the November card party will be on the 26th of the month. It was decided at the business session. Mrs. Frank Morgan will be chairman.

Schick Test Given to 74 Children

The Schick test was administered to 74 children at the grade school this week. All those who were inoculated with the toxoid last spring were found to be immune to diphtheria now. Forty-one others enrolled in the school were pronounced immune last spring, most of whom had the Schick test then.

Parents of pupils who are enrolled in the school for the first time this year have been given an opportunity to signify their desire for the toxoid inoculations. This may still be had if the parents will communicate with the school. The Schick test is not a preventative but is only a method for determining whether the child is immune from the disease or not.

This is a consummation of the immunization program sponsored by the Parent-Teachers' association last year. The tests were administered by Dr. R. D. Williams.

T. B. ASSOCIATION ACTIVE IN SEAL SALE

The Executive Committee of the Lake County Tuberculosis Association held a meeting this week to make plans for the coming Seal Sale.

Approximately 16,000 letters will be sent out from the local office at Thanksgiving time containing Christmas Seals and Health Bonds.

"This is the only fund raising method the association has to enable it to carry on its work," Mrs. Austin H. Niblack, president of the organization declared.

This year commemorates the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the first Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Saranac Lake by Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau. His Sanatorium at first had only two beds in it. Now there are 650 Sanatoria in the United States with $6,000 beds for Tuberculous patients. The Manual Training classes in the Waukegan and Libertyville high schools are making replicas of Trudeau's Sanatorium to be used as window displays in connection with the Seal Sale. Newspapers, the local radio station, motion picture houses, and bill-board posting companies are also cooperating with the Association in an effort to make the Seal Sale this year a success. A goal of $8,000 has been set for this year.

Doom of the Mississippi
Steamboating on the Mississippi received its first setback in the general disruption of ordinary business caused by the Civil war. And it was just beginning to recover when more sinister opposition appeared in railroad competition and as the steamboats supplanted the old hand-propelled broad-horns and keel-boats of an earlier time, so the speedier railroads gradually took away all through river traffic and the great Mississippi pack-ets were a thing of the past.

The Heart of Hollywood

By THAYER WALDO

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate, WNU Service.

THE arc lamps circled and the music played and twelve thousand people seethed around. Half an hour still before the picture would begin; thirty minutes more of glare and blare and babble, then another Garbheim's Arabian theatre premiere would be history. I stood on the fringe of the crowd, watching and listening to it all.

Out in front of the forecourt there was suddenly a commotion. Into the hanging microphone the voice of the announcer near me cries:

"Here it is, ladies and gentlemen—the big moment everyone's been waiting for. Miss Sylvia Malvern, the lovely star of tonight's picture, is just arriving. In a minute we'll have her here to say a few words to you."

Up the narrow cleared passage from the curb Sylvia made her glittering way. Jewels, fur, and her flashing smile created a picture of dazzling, if overdone, charm. As she passed a few feet from me I became aware of someone at my elbow, squirming and pushing forward. I glanced sideways with a scowl—and hardly stifled an explosion of mirth at what I saw.

There beside me stood a short, squat man whose face was the most absurd concoction of features I have ever looked upon.

"I'd just gotten the full startling impression when, to my further astonishment, he grinned and waved at Sylvia Malvern. Moreover, she returned it with a gracious nod. Then she had passed on and I became aware that the fellow was regarding me, his blissful smirk still active.

"Gosh!" he exclaimed in a gurgling voice. "Ain't she grand?"

"Sure is!" I agreed heartily. "Do you know her?"

He bobbed assent and the pop eyes rolled happily.

"Oh, yeah—she's my best friend, really. Course I only met her couple o' weeks ago, but now it seems almost like we'd known each other always." The perfect satisfaction in his tone decided me I told him:

"That's certainly fine! I've wished for years I could meet her myself. How did you manage it?"

"Well, guess I was just kinda lucky. But it was awful important to me; maybe that helped. I think 'y' get 'most anything' y' want bad enough."

Realizing that he was fully launched now and willing to talk, I suggested that we seat ourselves upon a small stone bench which stood beneath some potted palms near by.

"So you were very anxious to see Miss Malvern, eh?"

"Gee, you bet I was!" he replied with something like a wistful note. "Y' see, she was the first person to ever make me feel real happy. Back when I went to school, all the other kids used to laugh and point at me and holler 'Funny-face!' So I got kinda in the habit of stayin' by myself. Sometimes I was pretty lonesome, too, and—but aw, shucks, that sounds like I was feelin' sorry for myself; I didn't mean it that way."

"I went to movies a lot 'cause it was dark in the theaters and—well, I liked 'em. One day 'bout a year ago I first saw Sylvia—Miss Malvern, that is—and right off I was crazy about her. Her face was so pretty and sweet and—and kind-lookin'. Guess I musta gone back to see that pitcher five or six times, and the same with all of hers after that."

After an instant's pause he went on more eagerly than ever:

"Then 'long some time last winter I got the idea how swell it'd be if I could see her herself, and maybe even talk to her. So I just up and sold some land my folks had left me and come straight out here from Cedar Hollow—that's my home town, in Iowa."

"I didn't have much notion what to do, but I found Zenith studio and hung around the gate. One day the man in uniform there asked me what I wanted and I told him, and he called somebody else. First thing I knowed they was takin' me right into the place. I waited in some office just a few minutes, and then they told me where to find Sylvia."

"Well, it all turned out like I hoped for. We was alone, on the stage where she'd been actin' for this pitcher. I don't remember just what I said; maybe some of it was kinda foolish, on account of I was so nuts about her. But it didn't matter now—all I care about is thinkin' how swell she was to me. I ain't never gonna forget that, and I'll never mind no more when other people make fun of me. All a fella needs is one real friend."

Suddenly he noticed many of the throng drifting toward the theatre entrance, and sprang up.

"Golly!" he cried. "I gotta go; I might miss some of it. Well, hope you meet her some time, too. G'bye."

Before I could summon poise to move or speak, he was gone. I was still sitting there, pondering the tale and its strangely touching teller, when a crisp voice came to me from beyond the palms—the announcer signing off. Quite idly I listened.

"And finally, ladies and gentlemen," he said, "let me urge you to attend this truly great picture soon. I saw it in preview just last night, and it has everything; cast, story, songs, comedy—oh, what comedy! There's one skit I'm sure will be the season's biggest laugh. And they tell me it's absolutely novel; a scene in which the chief actor didn't even know he was appearin'. Miss Malvern's with him, and makes it a grand stogie. Honestly, it's a panic, and only one of the high spots in a real four-star show. Thank you; good night."

Membership Drive For Red Cross In Full Swing Here

Arrangements are being completed for the annual Roll Call by the Waukegan-North Chicago chapter of the Red Cross. The local chapter expects unusual demands to be made upon it during the coming winter and for that reason is desirous of having a generous response to their appeal.

Although the government's widespread relief program in this country's worst depression has assumed huge proportions, the contribution made by the American Red Cross to needy families in the last five years has no parallel in the annals of private relief agency activities.

Measured in dollars and cents, the Red Cross has spent $18,395,000 and distributed in addition wheat and cotton products valued in excess of $70,000,000 since the rigors of depression set in. Direct relief to 25,000,000 individuals in practically every county in the United States is the record of performance of the Red Cross. Causes of the plight of those assisted varied from unemployment to drought, tornado to earthquake, but all the aid was extended on the basis of helping others to help themselves. This principle, incidentally, has been adhered to since the inception of the Red Cross. Actually "helping others to help themselves" defines the movement itself. With all its expenditures, however, the Red Cross has made an even greater contribution to the cause through its accident prevention, health, and other services. All its 3,700 chapters have taken an important part in this work.
